MOBILE DATA ASSOCIATION

The Open Group Mobility 2002 Conference will explore how enterprises are gaining competitive advantage using Mobile applications.

Why and in what way is seamless access to information being achieved, no matter where from and no matter what device is used?

How can you cope with intermittent connections and variations in available bandwidth and remain effective?

How can the enterprise protect its IT systems from the new risks associated with mobile access?

The conference will be in the form of a lively interchange between buyers, who will showcase progress made, challenges that remain and how issues were fixed, and vendors & analysts, who will set the future direction in this exciting part of the industry.
